Norwegian Reports Solid October Traffic Figures

Norwegian's (NAS) passenger growth continued in October, up 9 percent compared with the same month previous year.

The airline flew 1,646,938 passengers in October. The total passenger traffic (RPK) increased by 11 percent and the total capacity (ASK) increased by 15 percent. The unit revenue also developed positively, with a RASK increase of 4 percent.

"I am pleased with October's traffic figures, particularly the positive unit revenue development. The passenger growth proves that our increased number of routes and destinations are appreciated by our customers,” said Norwegian’s CEO Bjørn Kjos.

The company operated 99.3 percent of its scheduled flights this month, whereof 86.9 percent departed on time.
